A Courier Journal reporter gives the following account of an occurrence at Carlisle, Ky .:

Bob Tillman is a colored man who seeses the peculiar di-tirction of baying stampeded a Kentucky camp-meeting. Now Tilman is in jail or a charge of retailing liquor without a license, the camp-meeting is again under the control of the presching ministers and United States Deputy Marshal Con McCarty is being admired by the good people of the camp meeting as the man who whipped the conqueror of twenty preachers.

The trouble started when the colored church members near Carlisle decided o have a religious revival. Word was passed over the country, and all the sisters and brothers for miles about came in to attend the services. Nearly twenty preachers were on hand, each as he had talked himself hoarse.
